[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—(The Hoosier Captain's second.)

He took third on Daily's base hit and scored when McGeechey, too, slipped a safe one to left.

His catch also had his eye on the ball and he planned a corker to left, on which Daily scored.

Little grounded to Whitney, whose tumble allowed McGeechey to score and advanced Bassett to second. Hines sacrificed, Keefe to Connor, and Hines took third, while Hines' second.

Seery sent Connor a grounder and the latter fielded the ball to the plate in time to cause Bassett's out.

Andrews knocked a fly to O'Rourke. Three runs.

Little went into the box when the New Yorks began their half at bat.

Connor hit a vicious liner to centre, but Andrews, by a marvellously pretty catch, spoiled the hit. Bassett cleverly assisted O'Rourke out at first.

Ewing gained first on four balls, and was immediately forced at second by Whitney's grounder to Hines.

Third Inning.—The champions also found it advisable to change the delivery and Crane was substituted.

Denny took rather kindly to the big fellow and slugged a very hot single to centre. Glascock and Daily were then sent to first on balls.

Crane made a fine one-hand stop of McGeechey's grounder and fielded Denny out at the plate. Ewing, in turn, threw to first, and a double play was thus effected, but a wild pitch followed, and Glascock, who had proceeded to third on the previous play, scored.

Bassett went out at first on Ward's assist. One run.

Crane made a good attempt for a hit, but McGeechey, by rapid running, got under the ball. Gore struck out.

Therman scored his base on balls, but Andrews made a superb catch of Ward's fly, and the inning closed with the Giants none the better for it. No runs.

Fourth Inning.—Gore made a lumbering one hit muff of Seery's easy fly. Hines got in a scratch hit over Richardson's head. Seery sacrificed a grounder to Crane and both runners moved a base.

Then Connor fumbled Andrews's easy grounder and Hines scored, while Hines reached third. Denny struck out and so did Glascock. One run.

Richardson began the Giants' half by gaining first base on balls, and Connor obtained the same favor.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1889.

A BIG DEAL! NOT A CENT TO BE HAD!

Boston's Triumvirate Said to Have Bought the Omaha Team.

THE PRICE $15,000 TO $20,000.

Chicago Declared to Be After St. Paul's Ball-Tossers.

Moves by the Magnates to Call a Check on the Brotherhood.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(Confirmation of the report that the Boston baseball triumvirate had purchased the Omaha baseball team outright was received in the city to-day, although President Stauding affected to know nothing of the affair.)

It is said the purchase price was between $15,000 and $20,000.

This buys all the men, thirteen in number, and Manager Seely.

After the Western League season is over, Manager Seely will take the men to the Hub, where they will be sized up and allotted to their different positions.

The Omaha are the 1889 Western League champions, and some members of the Club are first-class players.

There is no doubt that the Boston management took this step to lead off the Brotherhood scheme.

Spending himself now a little—truth of the Brotherhood Trust story, and using steps to protect himself.

He has an agent in St. Paul, trying to buy the Club of that city, which will win second place in the Western League this year.

An Omaha dispatch of this morning contained the first intimation of the Boston deal, it being alleged that Manager Seely himself had announced the sale of his club.

From the Manager's statement it was gathered that the Omaha champions were to be held in reserve in case the present Boston team walked away from the triumvirate.

Crane, the Omaha second baseman and leading hitter, was lately sold to Columbus for $2,700.

Clark and Nichols are fine pitchers and the whole team is strong.

Clark's batting record, to Sept. 20, was 74 games won, 30 lost, percentage, 75.4.

Up to Sept. 13, the Club had scored eighteen runs in 13 games, nine at home and nine away.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The Republican Convention had filled up slowly, the delegates struggling in without any appearance of interest.

Indeed, the ladies on the platform and on the side seats were far more interested than the delegates themselves.

The New York men who came to the first to arrive, but they by no means presented a solid front.

Gen. John A. Knapp, the Chairman of the State Committee, called the meeting to order, and the Rev. Dr. McKean, of Lansingburgh, delivered the prayer.

The Rev. Dr. J. V. Leach, of Albany, who played so vigorously in the Senate this year that Senator Tom Grady protested, had been selected by the local committee, but he gave way to Dr. McKean.

Warner Miller was the first of the leaders to appear on the platform and he was greeted with a round of applause.

The call of the roll was dispensed with on motion of ex-Gov. Cornell, and then the ever-variant issues were read.

Mr. DeWitt, of Albany, moved that Charles M. Depew be made temporary Chairman.

Yet the jury, after six hours of argument and many ballots, had not agreed at 11:30 last night, and the Recorder ordered that they be locked up in the Grand Jury room till the opening of Court at 11 o'clock this morning.

And the twelve citizens, peers of Master Ives, charged in chairs and on tables, and benches and essayed to snatch a little comfort in a cell.

What the matter with the jury? "It's just as bad as a conviction," Ives whispers to his counsel.

There was only one thing upon which to agree, whether the sense Woodruff had told the jury that the crime was committed.

There was the damning and indisputable evidence of Master Ives' own books that on June 21, 1888, he had written to his wife, "I have just been to the office of the Sheriff and have seen the body of the man who was killed."

There was the letter of stock as charged in the indictment, the only real question for the jury being as to whether, believing Woodruff's story, the delivery of the stock into Ives' hands in Brooklyn constituted an issue of the stock under the law.

In other words, all the jury were called upon to decide was whether, believing Woodruff's story, the delivery of the stock into Ives' hands in Brooklyn constituted an issue of the stock under the law.

But at breakfast time, when Court Officers Frost, Bingham, Clark and O'Connell stepped on to the jury box, they found the jury not agreed, and they had not beyond argument, apparently.

CHATEAUX, RACE TRACK, Sept. 25.—The weather to-day was very stormy and the wind, blowing from the northwest, drove the rain into the grand stand so that the back instead of the front seats were preferred.

The track was ankle deep in mud and water, but it was not very holding.

Originally very light, the fields, by free scratching, were reduced so as to take all interest out of them.

There was an annoying delay at the post in the third race, caused by the jockeys being unruly, and Starter Caldwell set Riley and French down for one year.

First Race.—Sweetwater at $20 each for horses that have run and not won at the meeting, with $1,000 added, of which $200 to the second and $100 to the third; six furlongs.
